We end the year with this magnificent guide to flower arranging for you, thanks to the generosity of world class florists who have been willing to let our cameras and correspondents share their methods and techniques closeup and in detail.

Your Christmas gift from them is this very special edition, and of course not only a huge thank you to them, but also our photographers and two interns who spend hours on their feet, trying to get the perfect set of instructions for you to follow, and then catalogue them and send them through to our headquarters in New Zealand.

So we wish you, them, and all our amazing contributors over the course of this year a wonderful festive season and bring on 2018! Have fun!
Happy arranging
